International workshop THE GLOBAL ECONOMY AFTER THE CRISIS: MACROECONOMIC AND GEOPOLITICAL IMPLICATIONS

25-27 June 2009

Castello del Buonconsiglio, Trento - Italy

www-ceel.economia.unitn.it/events/gc2009/

The consequences of the current crisis in the world economy are proving severe, far-reaching and long-lasting. Besides reducing global growth and increasing poverty levels in the developing countries, the crisis profoundly affects the economic and political relationships among countries at both regional and multilateral levels. The workshop brings together a panel of experts who will analyze key issues arising out of the crisis. These include the evolution of the crucial economic and strategic co-dependency between China and the US, the future role of the dollar as the world's reserve currency, the reform of the rules and institutions governing the international economic system, the implications for financial regulation and the long-run effects of the crisis on the developing world.
